But Pale and wan she grew, and weakly, Bearing all her pain so meekly That to them she still grew dearer As the trial hour drew nearer. The hour came at last, and the weeping neighbors assembled to see the little one die. The dew of death was already in the flower as its life was going down. The little chest heaved faintly, spasmodically. Do you know me darling! sobbed close to her ear the voice that was dearest, but it awoke no answer. All at once a brightness, as if from the upper world, burst over the child s colorless countenance. The eyelids flashed open, the lips parted, the wan cuddling hands flew up in the last impulsive effort, as she looked piercingly into the far above; Mamma! she cried with surprise and transport in her tone,...
